celebrated as a major novelist throughout the english speaking world atwood has also written eleven volumes of poetry houghton mifflin is proud to have published selected poems 1965 1975 a volume of selections from atwood s poetry of that decade the first collection of poetry in more than a decade features fifty richly varied poems that range in tone and subject matter whether it s lullabying a grandchild catching the brogue of an irish biddy or creating a climatic scene on the eve of a historic battle margaret doyle s poetry is always a delight rhyme or free formal or loose she is always a mistress of the poetry to which she is devoted isaac rehert newspaper columnist teacher author of rock run hollow margaret doyle was my poetry teacher and helped me fulfill a late in life desire i learned to hear more of the music in words and to explore the deeper meaning of life i ve used her teachings in my latest book jim holechek public relations consultant author of henry perky the shredded wheat king one of my favorite poems in margaret doyle s collection is amorum emblemata which deals with the short lived liaison of venus and mars when a poem can be that moving to inspire me whose whole life has been painting it has to be powerful writing you will find others which will mean as much to you frank redelius painter author of the master keys people who say they do not like poetry should read margaret doyle they will never say that again every line challenges and engages every word dances and dazzles this is a book to keep around to savor poem by poem gilbert sandler author historian and radio personality a small collection of poems about real life some light and some heavy poems from a master of the new york school margaret b ingraham s collection exploring this terrain bids the reader to join her in a journey of discovery in a world in which speed is increasingly regarded as a virtue and distraction is its inevitable consequence each of these poems offers escape and consolation one by one they invite the reader to be still to observe to listen to taste and see and ultimately to experience the wonder that only attention can discover hiding in the thin places within the various terrains of our everyday lives what is the terrain that margaret ingraham explores in exploring this terrain it ranges from the blue ridge mountains to pluto the path crosses the trails of memory and illness the natural world and disintegration and various parts unseen yet it stays as margaret says near the end of the book in the secret places of my brokenness it is the beautiful landscape of wonder the uneven country of love the difficult ground of faith loren graham author of places i was dreaming notes from the heart by margaret ffrench covers the work margaret composed during the final two years of her life she died when she was 64 two years after being diagnosed with ovarian cancer each poem is written with a passion which is intended to raise the emotions of the reader the work in each poem sets out the inexhaustible journey through the final two years of margarets life setting out beautiful descriptions of hope anxiety and the cry for the chalice to pass but only when she was ready and her work was done some of her work rails against the preconception of some who assumed they knew best and tried to dictate how margaret should live her life and when her intelligence is questioned she responds with the sharpest of repositis she makes it very clear that no one will condemn her before she decides when the battle has run its course beauty abounds in the poems together with grace humour intelligence and thankfulness we are given within these poems a unique legacy of the how a beautiful human being comes to terms with her imminent passing and her determination to display her feelings and thoughts in the hope it helps others on their life journey the lyric and meditative poems margaret gibson gives us in out in the open are works of contemplation and self inquiry in the long journey to be other than i am i have struggled and not got far she writes sometimes the journey takes the poet literally out in the open the mountains the desert the fields the wood at other times the journey the search for vision and for truth begins a moment s notice in more familiar domestic surroundings i lift the glass turn it slowly in the light its whole body full of light suddenly i hold everything i know myself most of all in question waiting for a grasp of permanent unity and clarity the poet turns the act of waiting into a discipline that enables the obstructions encountered desire fear ambition death disharmony to become teachers meeting others we meet ourselves one poem says and whether the other is a love or someone dying a former nazi pilot or a blind woman in zagorsk there is self meeting and sometimes a deep recognition of something beyond and yet within self at the core of what i am in that sacred space light does its work as it will without my consent or blessing and better so echoes of taoist buddhist and christian thinking haunt the mind in these poems although the vision arrived at in the last poems is syncretic an existential clarity in which struggle of wills is momentarily stilled the wind breathes light into our bones turning stars into power we can touch impluse we can follow of tell teaching love for that is what we are margaret hitchcock like all good poets asks you questions you didnt know you wanted to ask can flour or flowers be a life raft what does a house cleaner do when she finds love left lying in the house she is working in is anything better than butter what kind of cage do words make was cinderella really happy ever after what comes first in the morning the challenge of beauty or something else should the princes of poppycock be addressed as her peachiness the reader will find intriguing questions and surprising answers in these collected poems a feast to be savored slowly flavored with wit and unassuming wisdom and always with grace and humor a woman of many talents margaret hitchcock young created and ran a health food store on nantucket island a place she made her home and springboard to the world in her life 1931 2009 she was a mother a baker an actor a traveler and a food writer she was also an avid scrabble player and crossword solver loved language and the beauty of words when her worldly work was done she devoted herself to the call of the poetry she had felt all her life this book contains all the poems she left poems deal with death self image disasters politics children evolution history the news language dreams animals and love
